

FELDMAN ENDORSED BY WASHINGTON POST & RECEIVES CLEAN ENERGY AWARD

Dear Friend,

As Early Voting got underway yesterday, my campaign continues to receive wide support. After the endorsement by The Gazette last week, The Washington Post followed suit yesterday with a strong endorsement for my election to the Maryland State Senate. "Brian J. Feldman, the incumbent senator, is former chair of the Montgomery House delegation. Appointed to the Senate seat in 2014, he has been a leader in advocating for Montgomery's biotechnology corridor." Read the entire article here.

The backing of The Washington Post and The Gazette caps off a long list of endorsements from organizations that span the political spectrum. It includes organizations representing our teachers, fire fighters, police, farmers, environmental and business communities. View the complete list here.

The District 15 Leadership Team

The Washington Post's endorsement includes the entire District 15 Team and I am pleased to be working with such talented and committed State Delegates: Kathleen Dumais, David Fraser-Hidalgo and Aruna Miller. I urge you to vote for our entire team either during Early Voting, which continues through October 30th, or by voting on November 4th.

2014 Maryland Clean Energy Award

The 2014 Maryland Clean Energy Awards were presented last week at the Maryland Clean Energy Summit and I am honored to have received the prestigious Legislative Leadership Senate Award. My accomplishments were highlighted during the award ceremony, focusing on several legislative initiatives I have championed to advance clean energy, energy efficiency and reduce greenhouse gas emissions.
